

Verdict of No Cause of Action In Kaplan Case

Recover For Damages To His Car Which Was Wrecked in Collision With Occupants of Other Car Being Sued in Westchester.

The jury in the action brought by the Kaplan against Robert E. Anderson, an action brought to recover damages to his Cadillac car which was wrecked in a collision with the car of the Andersons, returned a verdict of no cause of action. There are actions pending in Westchester county, brought by Mr. Anderson and his wife and the other occupants of the Anderson car, to recover damages from Mr. Kaplan for injuries sustained in the collision.

Tuesday afternoon Trooper Butler was sworn. He went to the scene after the accident. He testified that the rear wheels of the Cadillac were on the road when the crash came together and he heard the crash and went to the scene. The Cadillac car was off the road on the grass in his field. He saw glass on the grass but none in the roadway.

The last witness called for plaintiff was Mr. Carr who conducts a gas station about 700 feet down the road from the scene. He heard the crash and ran to the scene. Lieberman was there when he arrived. The rear wheels of the Cadillac were about 3 feet off the road. Glass from the Chevrolet windshield was found in the grass. There was noise on the road. When he heard the crash he looked up and saw the cars together in the field off the road.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hogan for defendant Mr. Carr said his place was about 700 feet from the scene. Mr. Hogan asked him if he knew the last sound he heard was a travel 1,000 feet and the witness said he did not know about that. Mr. Hogan testified that if it took the sound nearly a second to travel to the place where Mr. Carr was a car traveling 20 miles an hour would have time to travel nearly 45 feet in a second. Mr. Carr said he did not know that.

Defendant Called. After the usual motions to dismiss the complaint the defendant was called.

Mr. Anderson said he and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fenwick were traveling from Yonkers north. He saw the Kaplan car coming some distance away. It was on its left hand side of the road traveling fast. It kept on the left all the way down the road and there were no other cars in sight. When the car failed to alter its course, Mr. Anderson said he applied both brakes and was nearly stopped when the crash took place. His car was about eighteen inches from the right hand side of the road. The road at the point was narrow by reason of the shoulders of the road being broken away. Before the crash Mr. Fenwick, who was in the front seat, called the witness' attention to the Kaplan car. When the crash came Mr. Anderson was rendered unconscious and he next came to realization in the Kingston Hospital.

Cross-examined he said he had driven a car for ten years and never drove any car over thirty miles an hour. When he approached the car he saw it slowing down. On the day in question he was driving between 25 and 30 miles. He had left Yonkers at 8:30 that morning and the accident happened about 1:15. Their only stops had been for a sandwich and gasoline.

Diphtheria on Wane in City Records Show

Health Officer Sanford Calls Health Board's Attention to Results Obtained and Plan to Enlarge Scope of Clinic—Little Mothers' League Organized Here.

Kingston's first free clinic to immunize children from diphtheria was held in 1922, and since that year the board of health has continued to hold clinics with the result that over five thousand children have been immunized from the disease in this city. Health Officer Sanford at the regular monthly meeting of the health board Tuesday evening called attention to the series of free clinics that have been held and told of his plan to increase the scope of the work.

Dr. Sanford said that Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock it was planned to hold a free diphtheria clinic in Santa Maria Hall on North street for the benefit of those parents who found it impossible to attend the clinics held at the city hall every Monday afternoon. The health officer said that it was planned to increase the benefits to be obtained from these free clinics by holding them in various parts of the city for the convenience of parents. He said that the free clinics held this year at the city hall had averaged about eleven new cases each week.

Since the inauguration of the clinics diphtheria has been practically wiped out and the only cases that have been reported were of those who had not been immunized from the disease.

Better Grade of Milk. Dr. Sanford also reported that the pasteurization plants in the city were being overhauled and brought up to date and as a result the city was now getting a better grade of milk.

Little Mothers' League. Miss Anne Cassidy, Junior League nurse, reported that she had established a Little Mothers' League in Poughkeepsie and that the league met every Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Santa Maria Hall on North street. The league was composed of girls from 12 to 14 years of age. The object of the league was to teach the girls to take care of little children and regular courses of instruction were given. At the completion of the course the girls were awarded certificates from the state health department.

Audit Bills. The board audited a number of bills; and several routine matters were taken up. The reports of the officers, which were received and filed, will be found elsewhere. The board then adjourned.

Judge Tracy to Talk Thursday

All who are interested in the principles of the Republican party are invited to attend the meeting and hear Judge Tracy. There will be other speakers who will outline the issues of the fall campaign, and it is expected that there will be large attendance.

BRIDGE PONTON EXPLODES KILLING THREE PERSONS

Bremen, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP).—Three persons were killed and many injured today and glass in all windows in the vicinity was broken when a Kaiser bridge ponton exploded. It was thrown several hundred feet into the air, falling on the stern of the motor yacht City of Bremen and crashing it.

May Stop Trial

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP).—A recess in the trial of Albert B. Fall until tomorrow was announced today by Justice William Hitz, who said he would have a physician examine Fall before deciding on his course in the case, halted by the defendant's illness. Fall was excused from the court room yesterday after his condition became worse. He suffered a bronchial attack shortly after coming to Washington for his trial.

Hogan announced he was no better today and said he planned to ask for a recess as soon as court opened. It appeared likely that if Fall does not improve within the next few days the jury would be excused and the trial stopped.

Fall's chief counsel said the former secretary's temperature today was 99.4 but that his pulse had gone up and that he was still coughing blood.

Fall, charged with bribery, was taken ill in the courtroom yesterday and Frank Hogan, his chief counsel, announced this morning that his client was unable to appear.

Dr. Sterling Ruffin, one of the physicians who attended former President Wilson, was named by Justice Hitz to examine the former secretary of the interior. He will confer with Fall's physician, Dr. H. T. Sanford, before making the examination.

Hogan today announced that Dr. Sanford had declared Fall was on the verge of bronchial pneumonia and that to return to court would jeopardize his life.

Dr. Sanford was quoted as saying: "The jig is up. Fall cannot return to trial."

Fall is charged with accepting a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doherty, oil magnate, in connection with the lease of the Elk Hills, Cal., oil reserve.

He appeared in court Monday against the advice of his physician and over the protest of his family. He seemed barely able to get his seat, and yesterday afternoon was compelled to leave when his temperature went up, his pulse increased and he began coughing blood.

SEEK FOUR MISSING WOMEN OF "THE DIVINE ORDER"

Los Angeles, Oct. 9 (AP).—Los Angeles authorities today attempted to ascertain whether four missing women, all purported members of the religious cult known as "The Divine Order of the Royal Arm of the Great Seal," were dead, and, if so, what caused their deaths and what disposal was made of their bodies.

The body of 18-year-old Villa Rhoads, described as a priestess of the sect, was found Sunday in a casket under the flooring of a house occupied by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rhoads, cult members. Investigation of the circumstances of her death and burial have indicated she died of natural causes, but a chemical analysis of the body is being made.

Members of a colony maintained by the religious order in the Santa Susana Hills, north of here, were being questioned regarding the reported deaths of Frances Turner, Harlene Sartoris, Katherine Bolz and Addie McGuffin. Investigators say they have evidence to indicate the women are dead, and are attempting to learn what manner they died and where they were buried.

Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Sartoris were said by investigators probably to have been buried in Ventura, Cal. Mrs. McGuffin, a 66-year-old widow, was reported to have left the colony three weeks ago. Police said they could find no trace of her. Mrs. Bolz apparently has been unheard from since 1927.

Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, head of the cult, her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Angeline Welland-Rizzio, and Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads were held in the Los Angeles county jail pending completion of the investigation of the reported deaths, the burial of Villa Rhoads, and charges of embezzlement made by Clifford Dahner, Long Beach, Cal., oil man, and other cult members, against Mrs. Blackburn and Mrs. Welland-Rizzio.

ARREST ELEVEN POLICEMEN AND A CITY JUDGE

Gary, Ind., Oct. 9 (AP).—The federal government's expose of liquor and vice conditions in Lake county had reached into the Gary police department today with the arrest of 11 policemen, including two commanding officers, and a city judge. Five other uniformed policemen were to have been arrested this morning by prearrangement.

The police officers and judge were specifically named in connection with the disappearance of a truck load of seized Canadian ale. The two drivers of the truck were turned over to federal authorities, but the truck load of ale mysteriously disappeared. The government charges it was divided among the police force, the judge, and prominent politicians.

The arrests of the police left 68 defendants, named in secret indictments, still to be arrested.

Social Event of Assessor Lahl Unusual Interest And Distinction

Washington, Oct. 9 (AP).—Isabel Mac Donald now can turn back to London with the assurance that she has met almost everybody in Washington who is prominent in official or semi-official circles.

The sturdy young daughter of the British prime minister was given little time to rest today from the strain of the brilliant dinner and reception in her father's honor last night at the British embassy before turning to her final round of engagements in Washington, with visits to historic shrines, to welfare study, and to additional social contacts.

Her young energy was given a severe test at the embassy reception, where she shook the hands of 600 guests of political and diplomatic importance. Yet her cheeks were as rosy as ever for the start of her morning rounds after a social whirl as strenuous as campaigning.

The reception at the embassy, where Miss Isabel, in simple gown of pearl white crepe, received guests in the second of three very huge and very crammed parlors, must go down in the annals of Washington as a social occasion of unusual distinction and interest.

Fitting Finale for Old Embassy. Scotch Highlanders in kilts played bagpipes in a spirited greeting to the arriving guests. A Scotch guard stood at the center of the massive, carved stairway of the old structure, which may soon be converted into a movie set for fiction functions. The old embassy is to give way to a new embassy next February, and last night's social event was a fitting finale for the beautiful old place.

Through the heavy carved doors, to meet Mr. Mac Donald and Miss Isabel, came Washington's most distinguished personages. The invitations had read "Decorations," and diplomats and military men were resplendent in gold-braided uniforms.

Mrs. Longworth at Reception. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the speaker of the house, the one woman of high officialdom in Washington that Miss Mac Donald had not met, returned from her summer vacation in time for the reception, though not in time to accept the invitation to the dinner just preceding it.

She appeared in an unusual gown of flowered taffeta in dark lavender, greens and reds, almost tapestry-like in effect. Its very full skirt touched the floor in the back.

On a platinum chain about her neck was a maltese cross, set with brilliant and emeralds. Throughout the reception hours Mrs. Longworth was the vivacious center of a chatting group.

Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, who came with her brother, Vice-President Curtis, was gowned in cloth of gold, trimmed in rhinestones. She wore few ornaments. She like Mrs. Longworth, was a center of attention and interest among the guests. Their names have been linked frequently in Washington's long discussion of rights of precedence.

Lady Isabella Howard received in silver brocade trimmed in silver lace. She wore a diamond necklace and diamond earrings. On her left shoulder were decorations which have been conferred upon her in recognition of her rank and patriotic services. Beside her stood the premier. Sir Esme Howard was not in the receiving line but gave informal greeting.

Truck Hits Auto, Woman Injured

A truck owned by David Samuels of this city and driven by Sidney Samuels and an Oakland coach owned and operated by Charles Stiversten of 116 Terrace avenue, Hempstead, L. I., were in collision on the Ashokan boulevard Tuesday afternoon. According to the report of the accident, the truck was coming toward Kingston and the Oakland was being driven toward Ashokan. The cars came together on a short straight stretch of road just east of the Temple's pond.

Mrs. Stiversten who was with her husband was injured and taken to the Kingston Hospital where medical attention was given. Later her condition was reported as fair. Mr. Stiversten was slightly injured about the face.

State Troopers were notified of the accident and Trooper Bentley went to the scene but found that Deputy Sheriff Herbert Segelken of Poughkeepsie had arrived at the scene shortly after the accident and taken charge.

The Oakland car was a complete wreck. The motor and front end was driven back and the body was shoved partly off the chassis.

Mr. Stiversten reported to the sheriff's office that he was driving west over the road. He had rounded a sharp turn and on a straightway saw the Samuels truck approaching. It was being driven to the left of the road according to his statement. He swerved his car to his left to avoid an accident and when he drove to the left the truck recovered the roadway and was driven back to its right and the cars came together. After the accident the truck was towed away from the road. The Oakland was facing south, and on the right of the road after the accident.

Sherrill Takes City's Buses.

Oswego, N. Y., Oct. 9 (AP).—Oswego walked to work this morning, the eleven buses which make up its transportation system having been impounded during the night by Sheriff Charles H. Nichols, acting with a representative of the Mack Truck Company, to which company the Oswego County Bus Company, Inc., owes $17,000 on the buses.

Assessor Lahl Died Suddenly

Stricken With Heart Attack at His Home on Lindley Avenue and Expired Before Medical Aid Arrived—Brief Sketch of Widely Known Business Man.

City Assessor Charles Lahl died suddenly of a heart attack while seated in a chair in the living room of his home on Lindley avenue, shortly after 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Lahl had not been feeling quite well for several days, but thought he had a slight attack of indigestion, and had not considered it serious enough to consult a physician.

Mr. Lahl had been at his office at the city hall during the morning and early afternoon at which time he appeared to be in his usual good health. He left the city hall a few minutes before 2 o'clock, stating that he was going to drive home, which he did in his automobile. He had been home but a short while when he told his wife that he did not feel very good and she immediately called up Dr. Freuerer, who came on the telephone and asked him if he would call at the house and see her husband.

In the meantime Mr. Lahl gradually grew worse and although Dr. Holcomb hurried to the house as soon as notified of the urgency of the case Mr. Lahl was dead before he arrived. Mr. Lahl's sudden death came as a shock to his wife and circle of friends.

There were but few men in Kingston who were more prominent in financial affairs of the city than Mr. Lahl, who had been an active member of Cordts Hosiery Company for many years. During the Canfield administration Mr. Lahl was appointed a member of the board of fire commissioners, and served with distinction on that board for many years. He is a former president of the fire board.

At the time Mayor Dempsey was elected two years ago he appointed Mr. Lahl to the office of city assessor which he has since filled.

Mr. Lahl was a native of Kingston, the son of the late Frederick and Sophia Seaman Lahl, and is survived by his wife, who was before marriage Miss Jennie Elmendorf, a sister, Mrs. Frank Elmendorf, and a niece, Miss Helen Elmendorf, of this city. Mr. Lahl was 54 years old.

Mr. Lahl for years had been engaged in the retail grocery business with a store on Lindley avenue. In politics he was an ardent Republican, and was always active as a worker in the Republican party, and was committeeman of the Fifth ward for many years.

Funeral services from the late residence Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

MAY REFUSE CLEARANCE FOR LIQUOR TO UNITED STATES

Ottawa, Oct. 9 (AP).—Refusal of customs of clearances for liquor shipments for the United States is foreseen by government officials here who profess to know the attitude of Premier MacKenzie King and his cabinet.

Despite the fact that there was no announcement regarding the subject at the close of a meeting of the cabinet yesterday, these officials said they believed the ministry had definitely decided in favor of refusing the permits.

"There has been a difference of opinion in the cabinet," one official said, "but no definite split on the subject." He added that the premier was among those who favor the ban on liquor clearances.

Novorossiysk, Russia, Oct. 2 (AP).—Carrying a cargo of American machinery and other American products, the steamer Exford, the first American vessel to come direct from the United States to a Soviet port since the war, arrived at this Black Sea port today. New Officers Elected At Baptist Meeting

Nanuet Selected as Location for the Next Convention—Final Consecration Service Will Close Meeting Today—Song Service and Addresses Tuesday.

The Hudson River Central Baptist convention met this morning, opening with a short devotional service conducted by the Rev. Charles DeWoody, after which convention business was in order.

The following reports were given: District director by the Rev. E. A. Snyder; Board of Trustees by C. R. Buck, secretary; Missionary Committee by L. B. Elghmy, secretary; Committee on Evangelism by the Rev. R. N. Allen; Correspondence by the Rev. S. R. Smith, secretary; Committee on Union of Associations by R. W. Doughty; Digest of letters by the Rev. C. B. Smith; Committee on resolutions by the Rev. Charles DeWoody; Sunday school and Young People's Convention by Benjamin Coddington, president; Committee on Pledge and Preacher for the 1930 meeting; Report of treasurer by George F. Hoag; Report of clerk, the Rev. William Barlow and report of nominating committee.

The report of the nominating committee resulted in the election of the following new officers: Harry E. Bailey of Nanuet, moderator; the Rev. Ralph N. Allen of Newburgh, vice-moderator; the Rev. William Barlow of Beacon, clerk; George F. Hoag, treasurer, and the Rev. John A. Courtright of Walten, secretary of correspondence.

Dr. L. M. Stevenson of Cold Spring, T. Bonninger of Port Jervis and George Muhleman of Newburgh were made trustees for a three-year term.

The Rev. A. S. Cole of Kingston, chairman, the Rev. T. P. Hunter, the Rev. R. B. Pattison, Frank Knapp and L. B. Elghmy were appointed to make up the missionary committee. The Rev. Mr. Pattison, past moderator, was appointed as delegate to the New York State Convention.

Next Convention In Nanuet. The report of the committee on place and preacher resulted in Nanuet, Rockland county, as the location for the next convention, and the Rev. J. Rutherford of Saugerties, as convention preacher, with the Rev. A. S. Cole of Kingston as the alternate. Nanuet is one of the oldest churches in the association, being organized in 1798.

The Rev. J. W. Bronson of Cornwall, reporting for the Ordinary Committee, stated that 90 Baptists in the association had died within the past year. Several changes were made in the constitution and by-laws of the association, including the choosing of the officers of the Young People's Convention, held in May, as a committee on religious education.

"We Are Laborers Together Before God," was the text taken by the Rev. A. J. Coffey of Phenicia in his convention sermon. The Rev. Mr. Coffey divided the text into two parts, we are laborers, and questioned that the delegates were really laborers. The efficiency and organization, together with the present day trend toward sermons on modernism and kindred subjects, had created a desire in the pastor to let religion alone and apply himself to topics not of true church nature. The reason for a church is to bring people to an understanding with God, to teach religion, and not to study subjects foreign to the church, according to the Rev. Mr. Coffey.

The proper way to judge the members of the congregation is by noticing what improvement has been made by the lessons taught, and not by glorious sermons which leave the church members awed but without any permanent good, the speaker said.

Before God, are we taking our thoughts and problems to God, are we really laborers before Him? The Rev. Mr. Coffey questioned that, and showed where some ministers seemed to have lost touch with the Lord in an intense interest to create a sermon that would take.

The morning session closed with an associational communion service conducted by the Rev. Mr. Cole.

Conclusion of the convention business and two addresses together with a business session, the subjects discussed at the afternoon session. The convention will close at 4 o'clock, with a final consecration service conducted by the Rev. Charles DeWoody.

Yom Kippur Begins Sunday

At sunset on Sunday, October 13, 1929, the chanting of the traditional melody of Kol Nidre in all synagogues and houses of prayer will mark the beginning of the Day of Atonement, called in Hebrew "Yom Kippur." The Bible also refers to this Holy Day as "The Sabbath of Sabbaths" in Jewish life it is also known as "The Great White Fast." Unlike the observance of any other Jewish holiday, the Day of Atonement is observed by fasting and praying all day. It marks the culmination of the ten-day penitential period which begins with the Jewish New Year's Day, and is in itself a day of meditation, repentance and fasting.

In ancient days, when the Temple still stood in Jerusalem, the Jewish people observed the Day of Atonement chiefly by offering sacrifices at the altar, as specified in Leviticus XXVI. In the presence of a large crowd which filled the Temple courts, the High Priest uttered three confessions of sin: one for his own sins and the sins of his family, one for the sins of the priesthood, and one for the sins of the entire Jewish people. The people prostrated themselves; the Levites sounded the trumpets; the priests implored God for mercy and forgiveness. Then the High Priest entered the Holy of Holies and uttered there a short prayer with deep religious fervor. That was the most solemn moment of the Day of Atonement.

With the destruction of the Temple, however, the sacrificial ritual disappeared as part of the observance of this most sacred day. The Rabbis substituted prayer for animal sacrifices and meditations for the confessions of the High Priest. They endowed the Day of Atonement with a deeply religious spirituality and gave it a purely human appeal. Throughout the medieval age it was considered as the day upon which God sealed the final fate of every creature in the world. It was, therefore, marked with fasting and prayer. The services of the day inspired the Jew with a divine reverence and made him conscious of his responsibilities to man and God.

Today, the Day of Atonement looms in Jewish life as the culmination of the period of self-examination, self-criticism and self-judgment. The beautiful prayers and devotional meditations serve to fill the Jewish worshipper with the spirit of repentance, reconciliation and forgiveness—three principles dominant in practically every religion. For this reason, the Day of Atonement carries a signal message to the world at large, as well as to the present generation of Jews.

The advancing season confirms the dominance of the princess silhouette—its regal influence extends to every realm of fashion. Furs, cloth coats, frocks for day and evening share in this new phase. And with it comes the lengthened hemline and the flaring skirt. All of these characteristics of the mode are evidenced in the collections here.

THE NEW COATS

Are Skillfully Elaborated.

The princess line swirling with a swirl effect at the bottom by means of godets, or circular panels is typical.

Fur trims nearly all the new models—the hardier pelts such as raccoon, beaver and mole for sports types—fox, mink or Persian lamb for those more elaborate.

AN ANTI-TOBACCO MOYE.

In view of the published figures showing the enormous and ever-increasing consumption of cigarettes, it is rather surprising to find the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals announcing that "there never was a time when the prejudice against cigarettes was increasing at such a phenomenal rate." This curious contradiction of the figures is a feature of the Board's campaign to secure legislation barring cigarette advertisements from the mails with a view "to reserve to American parents the health education of their children." It will be news to many that the health education of American children is now in the hands of the writers of cigarette or other advertisements, but that happens to be the Board's chosen way of backing up its assertion that "there is a majority sentiment in at least 300 Congressional districts prepared to demand the protection of American childhood from the atrocious assaults made upon it"—by cigarette advertisements!

We suspect that the Board regards tobacco in any form as "atrocious" and aims to drive it out of the country if possible, notwithstanding its prudent assertion at the moment that the welfare of the children is its sole concern, with no designs on "adult users." After being so largely instrumental in securing the Eighteenth amendment, the Board doubtless thinks that all things are possible to those who work wisely and wait. But all the indications are that the anti-tobacco crusade has a very steep uphill climb ahead of it, and that the possibility of ever going over the top is extremely doubtful.

PURIFYING WATER.

The chief engineer of the American Steel and Wire Company, C. Arthur Brown, announces a new process for "coagulating" impure water. He does it with chlorinated iron sulphate. This is simpler than it sounds. Water to be purified, that is, to be freed from objectionable cloudiness, color, taste and odor, must be coagulated or settled. There are many ways of doing it, mostly rather expensive. The new chemical combination, Mr. Brown says, will accomplish the purification as well as anything known, and do it cheaply.

It happens that iron sulphate is a waste product of steel plants. It happens, too, that steel plants are prime spoilers of pure water. It seems rather providential that this chemical, with chlorine added, can undo the damage the mills themselves do to streams of water, and along with it, remove other forms of pollution. As the country is industrialized, the water of many a stream is spoiled for human consumption. By such means, the same water can be redeemed over and over again, if necessary, thus promoting industrial development and population in localities with limited water supply.

Old Thomas Parr was a babe in arms compared with Li Ching-yun, whose fame has now reached us from China. According to the records Parr not only lived throughout one century but saw considerable of two others between 1483 and 1535; he had a love affair at the age of 105, took his second wife at the age of 120, and died at the age of 152 from excitement and rich food when he was invited to the court of Charles I. But it seems that Li Ching-yun can put it over old Parr to the extent of a whole century. A dispatch from Peking, China, says that Li is now 252 years old, that actual records verify his claim to such great age, that he was given imperial recognition on both his 100th and 200th birthdays, and that recently he was General Yang Sen's guest of honor, eating and drinking with the best of them. But possibly the rightful name of the dispatch writer is also Li.

Denmark proposes disarmament that is disarmament. The minister of defense has introduced in parliament a bill that would abandon all foreign armaments and actually abolish the army and navy. There would be no more conscription, military service would be forbidden. There would be left merely a "watch corps" of 10,000 men and a marine force of 25,000 men, totaling 35,000 men—a little more than one of our divisions. These would merely enforce domestic neutrality. The measure is expected to pass. It may be said that a little military force is necessary to keep the peace. Because it couldn't resist anyway if a big neighbor raised a military paw against it. At the same time the example is impressive. Other small nations may follow. Big nations, the world hopes, may come to the same policy in time.

From time out of mind long lashes have been regarded as a mark of beauty and as increasing the charm of the girl fortunate to possess them, and now comes the blunt medical opinion that they are a sign of ill health. It seems that Dr. Tamaoki of the Kyushu Imperial University, Japan, has made a two-year study of some 1,000 children and reports that most of them with strikingly long lashes were found not to be in good health.

The alternative editorial heading "Socks and Sedition" refers to the reception by Lynn, Mass., girls of the Mayor's order forbidding them to appear on the streets without stockings. It seems that "crowds of them" appeared before the City Hall and screamed defiance—after prudently putting on their stockings.

WHY THE HEAD ACHES.

Your first thought, if you have a headache, is to get something to ease the pain. This, of course, is a most natural thing to do, and I'm not going to criticize it at this time. But if you are subject to headache, to some particular headache, then your common sense tells you that there must be some reason for it. Pain, as you know, is Nature's signal to you that something is wrong somewhere. This trouble which is causing the headache may be located a considerable distance from the head.

Since the flu epidemic there have been more cases of headache just above the eyes or at the back of the head. This type usually comes on at a certain hour, usually about the middle of the morning and lasts a few hours. There is no vomiting and in a few days it passes away.

If it continues longer than this, it is most often because some secretion has been locked up, or can't get away from the sinuses (the little cavities adjoining the nose, above and to sides). This may require that the opening into the nose be enlarged and the cavity drained.

Then there is the one sided headache which is usually (but not always) accompanied by nausea and vomiting. This often seems to be hereditary, but tiredness and a sluggish liver are unquestionable factors in its cause. Rest with a purgative is usually all that is necessary here, as the patient appears to be well between attacks.

Where the headache is accompanied by dizziness it is frequently due to some acute ailment approaching, and rest in bed should be the first thought. If no abdominal symptoms which might point to appendicitis are present a purgative may be taken, but it is much safer to let your physician have a look at you first.

Then there are the headaches of which neurasthenics complain, a sort of binding pain toward the top of the head. This pain is not accompanied by vomiting or nausea, and the patient is usually able to get to sleep at night. This type of headache is helped by the open air or cool to the head, whereas the patient with one-sided headache prefers the heat and likes to lie down "in a quiet dark corner."

So if you have a headache try to find out whether it is overuse of the eyes, indigestion with gas formation, trouble in the sinuses, a sluggish liver, overtiredness, or some other cause. Don't be satisfied just to take some drug to allay the pain.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

CHAPTER I
THE SHIP GOSSIPS

It was all over the ship the next morning that Barbara Landow had married the saxophonist in the orchestra. It began as a whispered rumor which grew in force, as the facts became known, until it dominated the conversation everywhere: on the decks, in the lounges; it even penetrated to the kitchen.

Cora Trenton-Jones found herself the center of an eager, questioning mob who invaded her stateroom before she even had time to dress herself. All through the morning they came, in a never ending stream, Barbara herself being the first.

Mrs. Trenton-Jones had returned to the ship very late the preceding night, tired out, his head dizzy with the names of various hotels to which Henderson had dragged her. Having given her steward instructions not to call her in the morning she still was asleep when Barbara stole into her cabin and hugged her awake.

"Twenty darling," she murmured, "I'm so happy."

Mrs. Trenton-Jones' eyelids fluttered faintly, then she tried to resume her sleep, but, presently, raised herself.

"Is that any excuse for waking me out of a perfectly good sleep?" she demanded. Then, with the memory of yesterday unpleasantly vivid in her mind, she added crossly, "Anyhow, you're no right to be happy."

Barbara opened her eyes and purred innocently, "But why?"

And Cora Trenton-Jones launched into a graphic and realistic description of all she had suffered the previous day. Barbara was rocking herself to and fro with laughter.

The older woman regarded her in a hurt and angry silence.

"You might tell me what you were doing yesterday."

"I was getting married," Barbara announced calmly.

"Getting married? For the Lord's sake whom have you married?"

"Ray Lowther."

"Ray... whom? Never heard of him."

"You've heard him anyhow. Twenty—he's the saxophonist in the orchestra."

"The saxophonist... weakly, 'you're, you're joking, Barbara."

"Honest, I'm not—look here!" and she held out her slim plaid wedding band.

At that Cora Trenton-Jones collapsed.

"We'd have invited you to the ceremony if we'd thought you'd be so pleased about it!" Barbara murmured sweetly. "Wish me luck, old dear, I'm off now to see to my packing. We're getting off at Southampton."

She walked towards the door and, with her hand on the knob, added, "You better go on with this tour, Twenty. You're a sweet thing, but hardly necessary on a honeymoon."

His granddaughter, Gladys Davis, at Bridgeport, Conn., spent the week-end with Mrs. Julia Hornbeck. Mrs. Hornbeck was formerly Miss Nina Hornbeck.

Mrs. Walter Clifford and daughter, Norma Mae, of Worcester, Mass., and Harrison Brown of Kerhonkson called on a number of friends and relatives at this place Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Clifford will be remembered as Miss Leah Krom, formerly from this place.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—

And with that she was gone before Cora Trenton-Jones had recovered sufficiently to utter a word.

Ralph Henderson was the last to disturb her. He arrived simultaneously with the steward, bearing an immense box of candy. Mrs. Trenton-Jones considered that she needed it to help her withstand the shock of Barbara's announcement.

She knew that she would be blamed for Barbara's latest escapade; the girl's relatives would be furious, asking how she could have let such a thing happen under her very nose.

She felt uncomfortably aware that she should have taken more interest in Barbara's affairs, but to do so would have necessitated energy, and energy of any kind Cora Trenton-Jones deplored. Besides, she had not thought Barbara interested in any man on board, unless it were the Brillisher.

If only it had been the Brillisher, she reflected bitterly. He, at least, had a title in the office to exchange for Barbara's wealth. They could not have blamed her so much for that—but a penniless fellow in the orchestra.

Ralph Henderson's face was a mottled red as he stood angrily chewing his under lip whilst he waited for the steward to withdraw.

"What's this I hear about Barbara having married that saxophonist?" he burst out, directly the cabin door was closed.

Mrs. Trenton-Jones sighed. She felt better after a walnut cream. "I'm afraid it's true."

"Great Heavens!" she spluttered. "You sit there and tell me it's true."

"Sit there and calmly munch chocolate creams."

"One must live," she told him mildly, as she put the largest she could find into her mouth. "Three hundred calories at least—but I feel the better for it," she announced to herself.

He went on heedless of her interruption.

"Without doing anything to prevent it."

"What can one do now?"

"Damned if I'll believe he's a gentleman, either!" Henderson burst out.

He felt he could say no more than that.

Mrs. Trenton-Jones smiled, but it was a sickly effort.

"He may be—for all we know."

"Impossible! He wouldn't be in his present position if he were."

It occurred to Cora Trenton-Jones that if this Englishman were doing something similar instead of waiting to fatten off an heiress he might be better for it. But, by nature, she was a peaceful woman, so instead she began another piece of candy. She was enjoying herself for the first time in days.

"No man is worth dieting for," she thought to herself.

Aloud she said, "Knowing Barbara as I do, it can't possibly last."

"You don't think so?"

"Of course not."

"Ah."

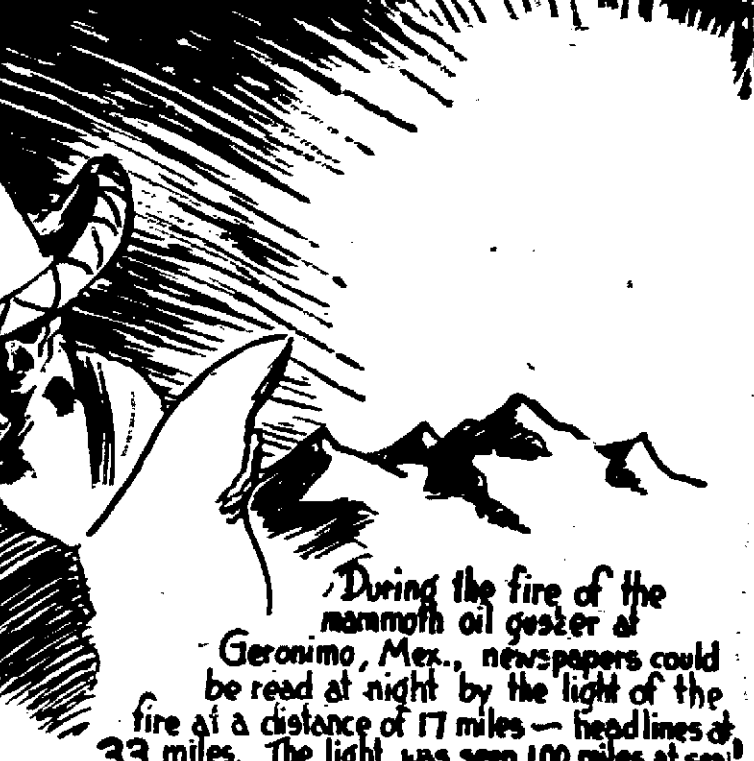

He appeared to be thinking, for he sat for some minutes on the end of her bunk pulling at his mustache. Presently he said, "It might be worth trying."

"You see," he explained, "I'd invited Barbara on a house party and she'd accepted. When I first heard of this—this tomfoolery of hers—I thought it was all off. Now I'm not so sure that it mightn't be wise to hold her to her promise and ask the fellow along too. Ought to sicken her of him quicker than anything, seeing him in constant association with—well, with men who are gentlemen, you know. She's bound to notice the contrast."

Ralph Henderson's clever plan spells misery for Ray and happiness for Barbara. Continue the story tomorrow.

WHY WE DO IT

Why We Are Hero-Worshippers

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph. D.
Author of "The Springs of Human Action"

WE WERE on the sidelines watching the varsity baseball practice. Some small boys with school books under their arms also came and looked on. After a while the session ended and the team was sent to the showers. On his way to the gymnasium the popular pitcher passed in front of us. One little fellow mustered up enough courage to speak to him. The hero returned the greeting. The boy threw out his chest, nudged his pal, and boasted—"He said 'hello' to me."

We are all hero-worshippers. We may exchange heroes but we never give up hero-worship. Your hero is the one who is and does what you would like to be and do, tell me who your hero is and I will tell you what type of person you are. Hero-worship has infinite possibilities for the development of character. It is the greatest force in your life. Everything depends on the type of hero that you worship.

There are great heroes of history and fiction who inspire many. We have our crop of popular heroes who reign for a season: prize fighters, jockeys, football stars, channel swimmers, ocean fliers, tennis and golf champions, actors, motion picture stars, religious leaders, teachers, soldiers, scientists, women fliers—an endless succession.

Hero-worship is also something of a pastime. It affords play for the imagination. In our daydreams we play ourselves on the throne of our most beloved hero.

The greatest service you can render the young is to help them select worthy heroes. It is also well to remember that in all probability you are somebody's hero yourself.

Mothers Help Create New Slogan

More Mothers Help Create New Slogan

Each year more and more mothers turn to Vicks VapoRub, the modern treatment for colds, because it is just rubbed on and cannot get into children's stomachs, as "doctors" is apt to do.

Originally designed and first used for children's colds, this betadine method gradually spread to the enthusiastic mother told us. Years of actual use also prove it is equally effective for the colds of grown-ups. Today the whole trend of medical practice is away from "drugs" and Vicks—a household word in America—is used more than 60 countries abroad.

The ever-growing demand for this is shown in its familiar slogan, "Vicks is just rubbed on and cannot get into children's stomachs, as 'doctors' is apt to do."

First announced when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Yearly," it has now reached "21 Million Jars Yearly." The figure is again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Yearly."

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Bismarck's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad results resulting from gas pressure. The empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will subside, and you will again be able to take deep breath without discomfort.

This drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Bismarck's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with circulation. Get the genuine, in the new package, at any good drug store.

ELIMINATE CHANCE in Coal Buying

Disappointment in the purchase of some minor thing may be only a transient matter. But no household can afford an error in the selection of his winter's coal. Such a misfortune results in the loss of not only money, but also of comfort, and possibly of health.

The famous "bull's-eye" trademark of Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite is a dependable beacon by which to steer your course in ordering coal.

For more than five generations this emblem has meant a super-grade of Pennsylvania anthracite coal, of surpassing purity and density and so high in heat-making elements as to make it the most economical of all household fuels.

Order it by its full brand name.

Young Girls With Delight the Change to New Long Skirts.

New York—If one is going to for the formal, staid type of evening gown, obviously one must be accustomed to the idea of something in the nature of a corset, and must revert to postures.

Whatever way the pendulum may swing by day, for evening the mold of silhouette on stately lines has arrived. There seems to be no dissenting voice against it even from the younger element. To a girl who has never worn a long skirt in her life, comes of course the urge to seize this opportunity of wearing one. It is the woman who has gone from long skirts late short ones who rebels. The younger set is showing the same enthusiasm for getting into long dresses as they are in losing their hair grow.

The Molded Silhouette and Long Fall Skirt is Interpreted in Metalized Moire.

(Copyright, 1935, by Fairchild.)

It may be remembered that the question of whether or not evening gloves would return to favor has been awaiting an answer until this moment. The inception of the new season proves this answer to be in the affirmative. What seems more sensational still, the smartest women are intrigued by the chic of dark evening gloves for formal occasions. This is of course one of the reasons for the rumor that the Gibson Girl ideal of beauty was the source of this season's inspiration. It is reassuring, however, to find that while fashions have developed along entirely new lines, they remain wearable, and remarkably flattering to woman as a whole.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Dover, Del.—Jimmy Fox, Jr., is beginning young. Over a hospital made he heard the din when his dad made a home run in Chicago. Junior is six days old.

New York—There has been an unexpected amount of diabetes at times lately because of drops in stock. Fear increases the sugar in the blood. Dr. Walter Langdon Brown of London explained to the New York Academy of Medicine why diabetes goes up when the market goes down.

Mexico City—The country is taking its new football seriously. Roberto Noriega, quarterback at the University of Mexico, is to fly with Reinold Root, the coach, to see the Yale-Georgetown game at Athens, Ga., Saturday.

New York—Water from the famous Plains of Marathon is being delivered with profit through an aqueduct built 2,000 years ago by the Roman emperor Hadrian, supplemented by new construction of the same Greek marble of which the acropolis is built. The Society

Anonymous Melanque Des Eaux Des Villes d'Alger, France et Environs. Company three years old, has declared a dividend of $1 a share.

St. Louis—Having left a convent to win a fortune, Miss Jeanne Lemminger plans to return to the cloister. She has established her right to one-third of the fortune left by her father, who emigrated from France to Los Angeles, bought real estate early and made wine. His estate is valued at more than $5,000,000.

New York—A wife who telephones her husband 264 times a day seems to be immune from prosecution for disorderly conduct. Magistrate Doyle of Flushing dismissed a complaint by Dr. Lison Paine against his wife.

Lake Placid, N. Y.—There is quite a rush on public libraries by girls who desire to become charming. Such has been brought out at a meeting of the New York Library Association. Books that tell how personality may be developed are more and more in demand.

Philadelphia—The ground hog is fatter than usual; bears' fur is heavier; the prairie dog's houses are higher. Therefore it is concluded at the zoo that it is to be a tough winter with much snow.

New York—Mrs. Antoinette Pawcett regards herself as "game." Though she has heard that in some parts of Africa it is necessary to wash the hair with benzine she intends to accompany her husband, Captain W. H. Pawcett, on a forthcoming hunt. He's away too much, and besides she wishes to check up on his stories.

Literacy Test For New Voters

At the general election in 1921 an amendment to article II, section 1, of the State Constitution was passed which provided:

"After January 1, 1922, no person shall become entitled to vote by attaining majority, by naturalization or otherwise, unless such person is also able, except for physical disability, to read and write English; and suitable laws shall be passed by the Legislature to enforce this provision."

The former test of reading an abstract from the constitution of this state given by the election inspectors, is abolished.

The general qualifications of voters are as follows:

Voter must be a citizen for 20 days.

Voter must be 21 years of age.

Voter must have lived 5 years in the United States.

Voter must have lived 1 year in the state.

Voter must have lived 4 months in the county.

Voter must have lived 30 days in the election district.

Voter must possess evidence of literacy if a new voter.

The qualifications as to time must exist as of the day of election.

Evidence of Literacy.

The evidence of literacy which all new voters must present to the election inspectors is one of the following:

A diploma from an eighth grade elementary school in which English has been the language of instruction, or of a higher school.

A certificate of literacy issued by the school authorities under the rules and regulations of the Regents.

Pursuant to the rules of the Board of Regents, the literacy test for the city of Kingston will be given at the high school on the following dates by Principal Frank L. Meagher of school No. 5:

October 10 from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

October 11, 12, 13 from 7:30 to 10 p. m.

October 14, 15, 16 from 7:30 to 9:15 p. m.

October 17 from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

The literacy test will also be given to new voters on any school day from October 14 to October 18 at School No. 5, Wynkoop Place, from twelve o'clock noon to one o'clock.

New voters are urged to take this test at the earliest possible date.

Camel Teams Utilized

In Parts of Australia

Many camels are used in Australia as beasts of burden. For instance, from Wyndham, in northwestern Australia, the cattle stations are served by camel trains which carry supplies for hundreds of miles into the interior.

"The camels are driven by Afghans," says the National Geographic society.

"Camel teams are familiar sights in the street of the little township, hauling in the great wagonloads of firewood from the outlying district."

"The first camels were brought to Australia for the use of the early explorers. Later a fine type of dromedary was imported for breeding purposes and it is this type of animal that is bred in central Australia. It is considered by leading authorities to be the largest and strongest dromedary found in the world. It proves invaluable for pack work in waterless regions."

Writers Who Worked Fast

There are many instances of works that come full-grown from their creators' brains. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" on waking from a troubled sleep, while desperately ill; and he wrote the whole amazing work at literally fever heat, then rewrote it from start to finish, and all within six days. Longfellow's "Psalm of Life" was built up from notes he jotted down on a bit of blank paper, or card, in his pocket; but of "The Wreck of the Hesperus," he said: "I feel pleased with the ballad. It hardly cost me an effort. It did not come to my mind by lines, but by stanzas."

Smart Six-Year-Old

When almost six years of age Benjamin Blythe, who afterward became a noted Scottish engineer, was walking with his father when the child asked "Papa, at what hour was I born?" He was told 4 a. m., and he then asked "What o'clock is it now?" He was told 7:50 a. m. The boy walked on a few hundred yards, then turned to his father and stated the number of seconds he had lived—which upon calculation turned out correct, even allowing for two leap years.—Grit.

World Is Asked To Aid In Tracing Meteorites

In connection with the coming display of the Leonid meteors, Dr. Willard J. Fisher (inset) asks the world to aid in digging up old records of previous Leonid activities. In the diagram, the ellipse is the long path of the Leonids. In November the earth's orbit cuts this meteor path.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Science Editor.

(Associated Press Feature Service.)

Cambridge, Mass. (AP)—The "Meteor Fisherman" of Harvard astronomical observatory, Dr. Willard J. Fisher, asks cooperation of newspapers in solving a mystery of the Leonid meteors.

These are vast swarms of meteors that for a thousand years have appeared about three times a century. Every 33 years, sometimes producing dazzling displays. They are due again in November, 1932 or '33; in fact a few should be seen this year on the nights of November 13 and 14.

But there is a mystery. The Leonids mostly failed to show up 30 years ago when last due. Astronomers suspect the gravitational attraction of the planet Jupiter was to blame then.

They think that in almost forgotten corners all over the civilized world, there exist written records that would go far to assist their predictions about the Leonids, that might help to show the world whether it is going to be worth while to sit up all night on a couple of chill November evenings about three years hence.

Dr. Fisher asks the press of the United States, and of the world, to broadcast the information about these records, so that they may be dug out of hiding and given to astronomers. His faith that news publication will bring results is founded on his experience in receiving hundreds of letters of information about meteors in response to his notices occasionally given to newspapers in the past. His use of such notices gave him the sobriquet of "Meteor Fisherman."

Written descriptions of the Leonid displays in past centuries are believed to exist in many places, particularly in ships' logs, in Chinese, Indian and perhaps Egyptian literature in the "Relations" of the Jesuit missionaries of Canada, civil and military reports from French possessions to the home government, reports of all sorts from Spanish America, Brazil and the Philippines, to church authorities and to the governments in Madrid and Lisbon, records of merchants, and Mayan astronomy.

Rotarians Hear About Immigrants

Michael Kley, Manager of the Immigrant Service and Citizenship Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, delivered interesting address.

"The Immigrant and the Community" was the subject of an address by Michael Kley, manager of the Immigrant Service and Citizenship Bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York at the meeting of the Rotary Club this week at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker related interesting details about immigrants who have been coming from the days of the Pilgrim Fathers when the number was small, to the years before the immigration laws were passed, when the total was over a million a year.

He gave facts and figures that showed the response to the call of America in 1917. Mr. Kley said, "America began to check up on those seeking admission to our shores and passed the literacy test law. The first restrictive immigration law followed in 1921, for equalization purposes and showing preference to the people of northern and western Europe. In 1924 immigration was restricted to two per cent of nationals of any country as of the census of 1950. On July 1st, the National Origins Act went into effect."

As a result, within the last three years a selected class of foreigners has been admitted to America, the large majority being between the ages of 16 and 44. Eighty-eight per cent of those who came over were examined on the other side, thus avoiding disruption of families barred because the quota was filled. Ellis Island is no longer the "Isle of Tears," he said, only three out of every thousand arrivals at the Port of New York were barred last year. The speaker gave an interesting description of the character and composition of the present immigration, using a large map and colored charts. He also explained the National Origins provisions of this immigration act.

Mr. Kley pointed out that 279,678 immigrants came to these shores last year. Europe sent us 156,591 immigrants, of which nearly 90,000 came from Germany, Great Britain and the Irish Free State. Canada sent 44,445 and Mexico 40,144. Mr. Kley brought out the interesting fact that 11,145 of the year's immigration were destined to relatives in the United States, nearly a third of the entire immigration for the year.

Using the census of 1920 for his figures, the speaker said that the United States had a population of 106,000,000. There were 14,000,000 foreign born in 1920, 7,000,000 of whom were not citizens of the United States. There were 5,000,000 illiterate persons in the nation. The efforts of the educational agencies of the country are reducing these figures, he added.

As an example of what a great public institution can do for the welfare of working people, and with particular reference to the assimilation of the foreign born, Mr. Kley gave an interpretation of the welfare activities of the Metropolitan in the development of a national program.

"This service has been carried on for the past twenty years," said Mr. Kley, "among more than twenty million people of the industrial class. Through health booklets, nursing service, films on health and periodical medical examinations, municipal demonstrations, radio health talks, and other media, all with the view of promoting the welfare of the people in their daily lives."

In the specific field of the immigrant and prospective citizen, Mr. Kley told of the welfare service rendered by the Immigrant Service Bureau in the effort to treat the newcomer sympathetically and encourage him to learn English and become a responsible member of the American nation. "All of these things," concluded the speaker, "tend for the development of a healthy, prosperous nation." He urged the Rotary Club to continue its interest in the health and educational activities of the community as an evidence of civic responsibility for citizens and non-citizens alike.

PRACTICAL OBSERVANCE OF LIGHT ANNIVERSARY
The membership of the Ward Street Baptist Church will observe the fifth anniversary of the invention of the electric light by Thomas Alva Edison in a most fitting and appropriate manner on Sunday evening, October 13, at 7:30, when a beautiful new system of indirect lighting will be dedicated, the system having just been installed.

There are six large ceiling fixtures, the arms each being 45 inches in diameter and suspended from four pivot rods, made of copper and finished in copper bronze dark verd antique. They make a most beautiful appearance in daytime as well as at night.

X-Ray detectors are used in the arms, which contain two 100-watt bulbs and two 500-watt bulbs, each arm being controlled by two separate circuits so that a soft light may be used or the full strength turned on as desired. All lighting is absolutely indirect, being reflected from the ceiling. Installation was by John D. Krueger, the well known local electrical contractor.

The entire walls, ceiling and woodwork of the church auditorium have also been redecorated by Benjamin F. Hammond of this city. The entire work, both electrical and painting, as well as the selection of the lighting fixtures, was done under the direct supervision of George E. Lowe, the well known architect, to whom much credit is due for the splendid effect secured.

The dedication service is expected to be beautiful and interesting and the general public is invited to attend.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT P. T. A. SCHOOL NO. 5
There were a large number of members present at the P. T. A. meeting of School No. 5, Tuesday. Mrs. Jackson, first vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Chandler, who is attending the state convention in Troy.

The meeting was opened with a song given by the pupils of Miss Mayen's room. Betty Moore then gave a recitation which was also very much enjoyed.

Miss Doremus gave the mothers a few suggestions as regards the training of young children, and then in explaining her duties as county agent, showed how the state cares for children handicapped with blindness, deafness or mental dullness, when brought to her attention. They are placed in schools where they are properly trained for useful and independent lives. The association is indeed grateful to Miss Doremus for her interesting talk.

The question of serving milk to the underprivileged children of the school was discussed and it was decided to continue same, as in other years.

The reports of Miss Abernethy and Miss Elmsford were represented by the most mothers, and they will have the banners until the next meeting.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

Dr. Vol gave instructive talk. An interesting P. T. A. meeting was held Tuesday afternoon, October 8, at School No. 5. Dr. Vol, the school doctor, gave a most instructive talk on the "Examination of the School Child." The reports on the membership campaign were very satisfactory, and preparations are now under way to welcome especially the new members next month.

High Honor for Dr. F. A. Johnston
The degree of Fellow of the American College Surgeons is to be conferred upon Dr. Frank A. Johnston of this city on October 18, at the annual convocation of the college held this year in Chicago.

In this country the letters F. A. C. S. placed after a surgeon's name are analogous to the degree of F. R. C. S. in Great Britain. The latter degree meaning Fellow Royal College Surgeons. Including Dr. Johnston there will be four surgeons in Kingston holding this honor, the others being Dr. George F. Chandler, Dr. Frederick Synder and Dr. A. A. Stern, all on the staff of the Kingston Hospital.

Dr. Chandler was elected chairman of the executive committee of the New York section of the American College of Surgeons at the last annual meeting, which was held in Brooklyn.

TO STOP CHILDREN FROM SUCKING THEIR THUMBS
Washington, Oct. 9 (AP).—Children addicted to sucking their thumbs dislike to watch themselves do it.

That is the conclusion Dr. Samuel J. Lewis of Detroit, reported to the American Dental Association after five years spent in developing the first scientific evidence that definitely blames the habit for deformation of a child's Caudex, or early teeth.

He saw in psychology, rather than aluminum mits or other mechanical methods, the best cure for thumb-sucking. Children taken from play twice a day and forced to perform the habit in front of a mirror for ten minutes were successfully cured.

Malformation of teeth will correct itself, he said, if the thumb-sucking is stopped before a child is five years of age.

Ticefeldt Held Following Crash
While Superintendent Mills of Public Works Board, Was Detained Along Wilbur Avenue His Car Was Struck by Ticefeldt's Car—Ticefeldt Arrested.

This morning while Superintendent Frank Mills, of the Board of Public Works, was driving his car along Wilbur avenue he was struck by a Ford sedan driven by Jerry Ticefeldt of 119 North Front street. Both cars were damaged but no one was injured. Ticefeldt, it is alleged, failed to stop after the crash, but drove on. Police headquarters were notified and Ticefeldt was caught on North Front street and held at center street by Officer Fitzgerald.

Later in the morning Ticefeldt was arraigned before Judge Sanford in police court on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated. Ticefeldt entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was adjourned to Friday morning and bail fixed at $250.

INTERNATIONAL BANK MUST BE SUBJECT TO VETO
Baden-Baden, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP).—Any American fears that the conference on the bank for international settlements might try to erect a super-bank with the possibility of dominating world finances is relieved by the American delegation here to have been stayed by today's decision, that the statutes must contain a veto clause. This clause guarantees to every bank of issue the right to veto the contemplated international bank operations within its territory. It was stated that this provision would be so carefully phrased that the inherent veto right would be apparent beyond doubt.

Redeemer Church To Raise $12,500
Campaign Next Month to Raise Funds Sufficient to Extinguish Mortgage and Make Necessary Improvements.

At a special meeting of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer it was unanimously decided to launch a campaign next month to raise $12,500 to liquidate the present mortgage and make necessary improvements by the time of the 50th anniversary of the church on January 24, 1932. The campaign will be conducted in cooperation with the Every Member Visitation. November 24th has tentatively been set aside as the day for the simultaneous campaigns. It is hoped that pledges for the entire sum will be raised in one day. A valuable campaign directory is being prepared containing interesting information concerning the congregation. It was 22 years ago that the present congregation was organized for the benefit of English speaking Lutherans. First services were held in Lucemb's Opera House on Broadway, was erected in 1913. By the untiring efforts of its members the debt has been decreased to a small figure. It is expected that the campaign will be greatly successful for the congregation is anxious to give more time to the more specific work of the Christian church. In addition to pledging about $2,200 for the material pension campaign in 1928 the congregation during the past two years has raised a large sum for special repairs and current expenditures. The church council will serve as the campaign committee and will be led by the pastor, the Rev. O. K. Brandorf.

Officers Elected At Meeting

New York state of the "Christian Baptists" for the year 1929. The speaker called immediate attention to the celebration and commemoration of the centennial of the birth of Jesus Christ, which will be observed on the 25th of December, 1929. The speaker stated that the church had been founded on the 25th of December, 1929, and that the church had been a part of the church since that time. The speaker also stated that the church had been a part of the church since that time. The speaker also stated that the church had been a part of the church since that time.

The second address of the evening was given by the Rev. J. Harvey Moore of Poughkeepsie, who gave his hearers much to think about on the subject of "The Marks of a Full Grown Christian."

"There is nothing in God's world more beautiful than a baby," said the speaker, for it is a new baby every day it is healthy, normal and growing naturally. Mothers often expressed the wish that their babies would never grow up, without really meaning what they said, since a baby that would grow up would be an unrepeatable tragedy. Paul in his Epistle to the Hebrews had this to say: "For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk and not strong meat. For every one that useth milk is unskilled in the word of righteousness; for he is a babe." Mr. Moore mentioned several kinds of "Babe" Christians, those who expressed belief in God and Christ, but whose beliefs never eventualized in their lives for the better. Then he told of three things belonging to the full-grown Christian such as measures up to "the fullness of the stature of Christ." They were an unshakable spiritual foundation made up on such essential beliefs as are necessary for an irreducible minimum to be a Christian; the belief that Jesus Christ told the truth about God; a belief in God of the same sort that the scientist has in the thing that he is doing; which affects action; a belief in God as a force to be trusted as the law of gravitation and used as we use electricity.

Mr. Moore said God is creating and operating in his world right now, showing new miracles in his development of human character. Through us humans He is getting something done by means of Jesus working in us.

The second thing belonging to the fullgrown Christian was an "Unalterable Christian purpose." A boy begins to be a man when he has formed in his mind and heart a life purpose which never for one moment leaves him, but which shapes and builds his future. Jesus' purpose was to be about His Father's business. When we can find what God is doing in the world today, where He is doing it and then get behind that thing with all our heart and soul we can help accomplish much for Christ. It was Mr. Moore's belief that the Eighteenth Amendment might be enforced if so many of the church people were not so wishy-washy about it.

Then the speaker counted an unquenchable spirit of love as a third thing. Much of our love is that of "Babes in Christ," the "Love them that love you," sort. Real Christian love was such a love as Real Christians had who died for us on the cross and as God had when he gave his only begotten son for our salvation. "Jesus, knowing that His hour had come—loved them to the end," and the speaker reminded his hearers that those fellows were not easy to love to the end. Again it must be a redemptive love that can see the undesirable, even offensiveness and sin in a life and yet love such a person, not for their undesirability but for the good things, however few and small, which God in Christ might see in them and with dynamic love. Mr. Strickland closed his address with the prayer that we might all become fullgrown sons of God.

After a few announcements the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

The first meeting of the association was held at 2 o'clock with the Rev. Robert E. Patterson, the moderator, presiding. The delegates were welcomed to the meeting by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. Roll call of the delegates was taken, and reports of various standing committees were made. A report of the executive committee was given by E. P. Benjamin, moderator. Appointment of committees was then made.

An address, "Educational Program in New York State," was presented by Dean Thomas Waring of Colgate Rochester Divinity School. Speaking from the standpoint of an educator, Dean Waring said that the test of the ability of any school was the graduated students. He believed in thorough education, not a haphazard training or methods of short cuts which are supposed to give the youth sufficient to "get by."

In speaking of denominational institutions, the speaker said that the atmosphere offered by such schools was the most wholesome, and that they offered the best foundation for a Christian life. "I believe in a knowledge of Greek and Hebrew so that the student may be able to read the Bible in its original form, in the form where its real beauty is intact." He told the audience that three schools receiving Baptist aid, Cook Academy, Kucha College and Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, were among the finest of their kinds in the country, that they were institutions of recognized standing and that their graduates were always first-class scholars and citizens imbued with a deep religious conviction.

Mrs. M. C. Moon, superintendent and matron of the Up-State Baptist Home for Children, on the main road between Oneonta and Cooperstown, was the second speaker at the afternoon session. Her subject was the life and problems of the school. "Since I spoke to you last year, a $12,000 mortgage has been lifted, but the current expenses of the school were placed in an embarrassing situation to do it. If you folks could only make it a point to give 20 cents a year to the school, the problem would be solved," she said.

Mrs. Moon explained that the school furnished a Christian background for many small children who would not otherwise receive that training. Some $90,000 was spent by the school last year in that training, the speaker said. The children are found homes with families of Christian character, after they have been thoroughly investigated.

Talks on State Work.
The final speaker of the afternoon conference was the Rev. John C. Smith, executive secretary of the association, who addressed the delegates on "Our State Work."

The Rev. Mr. Smith spoke of the work on the various Indian reservations throughout the state, which he said was turning toward a Christian ideal. He also spoke of his own attempts to give the state convention and organization proper publicity by creating a quarterly bulletin to send to all churches with information concerning the organization. Next year, Mr. Smith said that he hoped to have the publication made a monthly affair.

The afternoon session of the conference closed with a discussion, the delegates asking the Rev. Mr. Smith questions on church work and problems. Some of the problems presented included the source of authority in the local church, the question of the every member canvass, the number of treasurers a church should have, the constructing of a financial report of a church and the development of a missionary spirit in the church.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary was then called to order by Mrs. Grant Corson of Ossining, president of the organization. A short devotional period was held, which was followed by the business session. The anniversary address of the organization was given by Miss Ruth Shaw, missionary to Porto Rico. She told the auxiliary about the conditions in Porto Rico, what the missionary society was doing there, and the general progress that it was making in bringing the Porto Ricans to a Christian ideal.

After the address, the auxiliary adjourned for dinner. All of the meals are being served in the church by the Albany Avenue Baptist women.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Pennsylvania Railroad, holding company, announced that it had purchased the 100,000 shares of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which it had previously owned, for $100,000,000. The purchase was made through the issuance of 3,025,000 additional common shares in the form of voting-trust certificates at $10.50 each. Present certificate holders will be entitled to purchase one share in the ratio of one for every five shares held. The rights, on the basis of yesterday's closing price of $24.50 for Pennsylvania stock, are worth in the aggregate $15,000,000. In announcing the offering, the company made known that it had purchased the Catox Company, a strategic piece of railroad property in Baltimore.
Thirty-six chain store companies, reporting for September, had total sales of $12,321,068, an increase of $1.75 per cent over September, 1928.
The Northern States Power Company has made reductions in the price of electric light and power which are expected to save consumers in the central northwest approximately $1,250,000 annually.
The weekly estimate of bituminous coal production in the United States for the period ended October 5, is 11,200,000 tons, a decline of about 250,000 tons from the total for the preceding week.
Charles H. Cramer of 168 Broadway was injured when the left arm of his car was struck by the right arm of a car coming from the opposite direction at the intersection of 14th Street and Broadway. The car was driven by a man named John J. Smith, who was also injured. The car was damaged and the driver was taken to the hospital.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 9 (AP).—Frequent surges of selling swept through today's stock market, indicating the nervousness of professional traders over the possibility of a secondary reaction. But a drop in the call money rate from 5 to 6 per cent, the lowest official rate since August 17, 1927, revived speculative confidence, and a brisk rally got under way in the early afternoon.
Early selling was based on fears that the recent revival of bullish activity would place a further strain on the credit situation. But the drop in the call rate, accompanied by a further easing of time loans, stimulated a resumption of operations for the advance. Wide guesses were being made on the federal reserve brokers' loan statement this week, with a majority of observers looking for a decrease of between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000.
In the early wave of selling, American Machine and Foundry dropped nearly 14 points and Eastman Kodak, Detroit Edison, Columbian Carbon, General Electric, Simmons Company, Westinghouse Electric, American Water Works, Auburn Auto, St. Louis Southwestern, Atchison, Warren Brothers, New York Central and Ingersoll-Rand fell 5 to 10 points. Many of these losses were cut down or wiped out in the first flurry of buying in the early afternoon.
National Biscuit and Ludlum Steel moved into new high ground for the year. American Tobacco issues ran up about 10 points and then met heavy profit-taking which cut down their gains.

George Earnshaw And Pat Malone Opposing Pitchers

By Alan J. Gould.
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP).—A drop of around 15 degrees in temperature, plus the after effects of the opening day downfall of the home team, had a distinctly chilling effect upon the enthusiasm of the crowd that turned out today for the second game of world's series between the Cubs and Athletics.
The cool snap was accompanied by a stiff breeze off Lake Michigan and it took the hardy courage more typical of football than baseball fans for the outfield bleachers to be fairly well filled by noon time.
It was a day for furs, overcoats and stimulating influences, the coldest and most uncomfortable any world's series day has experienced since the semi-freezing game between the Senators and Pirates in 1925.
The weather was considered likely to influence the old master, Connie Mack, to start the most ancient of his twirlers, Jack Quinn, instead of the younger, stronger George Earnshaw, for the attempt to follow up the advantage gained by Howard Ehmke in such dramatic fashion yesterday.
Quinn, the experts pointed out between periods of exercise to keep from becoming numb, likes cold weather for his balling assortment of spitballs. The only danger appeared to be that the ball might be ice-covered by the time a slow curve reached the plate.
Pat Malone Cub Choice.
Pat Malone was the Cub pitching choice, "regardless of wind and weather."
Entertained by the antics of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the thousands who flocked courageously into the bleachers hours before game time huddled together in blankets, coats and newspapers to keep out the chilling blasts.
The football act of the baseball comedians was the big hit of their morning overture, particularly Altrock's persistent efforts to run the wrong way for a touchdown.
By noon there were still big empty spaces at either end of the new bleacher sections, in contrast with the capacity jam of opening day. There was no wild rush whatever for the turnstiles although the attendance was not expected to be much short of the first game figure of 59,740.
The Cubs came to the park early and seemed anything but downhearted as they joked and kidded in the dressing room.
"What's one game?" shouted Gabby Hartnett, with an echo from the pugnacious Hack Wilson. "We've come back before after taking a short count and we will do it again."
Cubs in Heavy Wool.
The Cubs came on the field shortly before noon, bundled in heavy wool and leather jackets. Apparently sure that there was no chance today of Connie Mack shifting to a left hander, the Bruins batted against the right handed offerings, especially slow ones, in practice.
Clyde Beck, utility infielder, displayed his versatility by tossing "em up for the drill.
"With not much more than an hour to go before the start of the game, if it began on schedule, there was still much empty room in the bleachers.
So easy to handle was the crowd situation and so conspicuous the absence of customers around noon that a goodly number of police congregated for a card game under the shelter of the grand stand. The umpires started a crap game to help keep warm.
The Athletics, too, were wrapped in wind breakers to protect them from the cold. The visitors tossed the ball about as the Cubs continued their batting practice.
The number of guesses as to the A's starting pitcher was reduced by one when Eddie Rommel, the knuckle ball artist, went out for batting drill. The Mackmen were full of snap, prancing around like a lot of cats. They drew the majority of cameramen to their side of the field along with such famous player fielders as Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth.

The Lineups.
The lineups for the second world series game today follow:

NEW YORK CENTRAL OFFERS NEW STOCK
New York, Oct. 9 (AP).—Stockholders of the New York Central railroad today were offered rights to subscribe to 486,299 additional shares of stock at $100 each in the ratio of one share for each 13 held on November 15.
The $35,569,000 realized from sale of the stock will be used for improvement and expansion of the company's facilities and for general corporate purposes.
On the basis of today's selling price of $225 for New York Central on the New York Stock Exchange the rights were worth $9 each. They expire January 31.
The offering is subject to the approval of the interstate Commerce Commission.

Pat Malone Cub Choice.
Pat Malone was the Cub pitching choice, "regardless of wind and weather."
Entertained by the antics of Nick Altrock and Al Schacht, the thousands who flocked courageously into the bleachers hours before game time huddled together in blankets, coats and newspapers to keep out the chilling blasts.
The football act of the baseball comedians was the big hit of their morning overture, particularly Altrock's persistent efforts to run the wrong way for a touchdown.
By noon there were still big empty spaces at either end of the new bleacher sections, in contrast with the capacity jam of opening day. There was no wild rush whatever for the turnstiles although the attendance was not expected to be much short of the first game figure of 59,740.
The Cubs came to the park early and seemed anything but downhearted as they joked and kidded in the dressing room.
"What's one game?" shouted Gabby Hartnett, with an echo from the pugnacious Hack Wilson. "We've come back before after taking a short count and we will do it again."
Cubs in Heavy Wool.
The Cubs came on the field shortly before noon, bundled in heavy wool and leather jackets. Apparently sure that there was no chance today of Connie Mack shifting to a left hander, the Bruins batted against the right handed offerings, especially slow ones, in practice.
Clyde Beck, utility infielder, displayed his versatility by tossing "em up for the drill.
"With not much more than an hour to go before the start of the game, if it began on schedule, there was still much empty room in the bleachers.
So easy to handle was the crowd situation and so conspicuous the absence of customers around noon that a goodly number of police congregated for a card game under the shelter of the grand stand. The umpires started a crap game to help keep warm.
The Athletics, too, were wrapped in wind breakers to protect them from the cold. The visitors tossed the ball about as the Cubs continued their batting practice.
The number of guesses as to the A's starting pitcher was reduced by one when Eddie Rommel, the knuckle ball artist, went out for batting drill. The Mackmen were full of snap, prancing around like a lot of cats. They drew the majority of cameramen to their side of the field along with such famous player fielders as Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth.

Ehmke Pitches Athletics To Victory In First Game

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—Thanks to the manager's decision. And that is what the man did who is called a "broken arm pitcher" by other players.

Charlie Root, the losing pitcher, left the game to make room for a hitless pitcher with only one out and three hits scored against him in seven innings, the lone counter being a towering drive into the center field bleachers from the bat of Jimmy Fox.

In contrast to Ehmke's slow, tantalizing side arm curves, with less than half a dozen fast balls mixed in for the sake of variety, Root depended on a fast ball and a fast curve. Guy Bush, the other Cub pitcher, allowed three hits and two runs, but the runs were not earned, being made possible by two successive errors by Elwood English, Chicago shortstop.

Exactly 50,746 spectators paid to see Ehmke stop Rogers Hornsby and Hack Wilson in their tracks, neither of the Cub sluggers getting to base. Wilson made the best bid, crashing a line drive into Ehmke's side in the sixth with such force that it knocked the pitcher to the ground and produced an ugly bruise. Ehmke, however, took only a short count and was strong at the closing bell. He capped his performance by fanning Charlie Tolson to rife last out with the tying run on base.

Another Record.

It is not vital but Gordon Cochran made another world's series record when he was credited with 11 putouts in the opening game.

After Mr. Mack crossed the talent so thoroughly in his first pitching choice, speculation as to his domination was somewhat subdued. There was a tendency, however, to believe that George Earnshaw, his rugged right handed ace would be summoned with another George, the left handed Rube Walberg, ready to lead first aid if necessary. Lefty Grove was pitching furiously in the "bullpen" when the first game ended, and will rest today. A school of thought favored selection of old Jack Quinn for today on the theory that the tall tactician might wish to slow ball the Cubs to extinction while they were in the mood, but a majority thought Mack would switch from the hesitation stuff to speed.

Pat Malone, the strikeout king of the National League, seemed virtually certain to take up the burden for the Cubs, with Hal Carlson, a cool, calculating person in reserve.

Immediately after the game, the players, umpires and camp followers will leave for Philadelphia to resume play in the east Friday.

ROANERS BEGIN PRACTICE THE COMING WEEK.

The first practice of the Roaners will be called next week at which time the team will be put through a stiff workout by Coach Jack Robins.

The Roaners have been organized for the past four seasons and are able to cope with the best amateur teams in the Hudson Valley.

Those who have seen this team in former years know that they were always assured of a fast clean game.

The boys who will uphold the honor of the Roaners this year will be Raichie, Bittner, Boice, (forward), Cahill (center), Ralinsky, McDonald and Robins (guards).

Balinsky and McDonald are newcomers but have proven their skill with the high school team of a year ago and with the addition of themselves the Roaners consider themselves unbeatable.

Manager Gentile has already booked some of the fastest teams in the capital district and in playing these teams he has secured the best opposition available. Their games is to open about the middle of November and Roaners followers will have an opportunity to see the strongest team they have played on the court since their organization.

Another factor contributing to the success was Connie Mack's score card. Mr. Mack never goes to a ball game without a score card. Mack uses the program to wigwag his thoughts and opinions to his employees. By a system of sweeping flourishes he notifies his fielders when to start when to stop and when to take a deep breath.

Another factor contributing to the success was Connie Mack's score card. Mr. Mack never goes to a ball game without a score card. Mack uses the

The scorecard was going like a windmill yesterday, contributing like the Cub bats, a spanking breeze to the festivities.

ROANERS BEGIN PRACTICE THE COMING WEEK.

The first practice of the Roaners will be called next week at which time the team will be put through a stiff workout by Coach Jack Robins.

The Roaners have been organized for the past four seasons and are able to cope with the best amateur teams in the Hudson Valley.

Those who have seen this team in former years know that they were always assured of a fast clean game.

The boys who will uphold the honor of the Roaners this year will be Raichie, Bittner, Boice, (forward), Cahill (center), Ralinsky, McDonald and Robins (guards).

Howard Ehmke Hero of Mackmen

Philadelphia, Oct. 9 (AP)—Howard Ehmke, hero of the Mackmen today because of his victory over the Cubs in the opening world series game, was scarcely a hero to his teammates during the regular season when his showing with the A's was only mediocre.

A sore arm kept the veteran on the bench most of the time, and his starting games were few and far between.

Even the patient Connie Mack, who long had regarded Ehmke as one of the great pitchers, when his arm was normal, began to believe as the season wore on that Ehmke's days of usefulness to his club were nearing the end.

One morning two months ago, as the story was recalled today, Mack sat in his tower at Shiloh Park, waiting. He had sent for the pitcher with the sore arm.

Ehmke mounted the stairs to the turret slowly, and stood beside his chief. Mack looked up from his papers.

On the desk they lay, fifteen walters that meant that Ehmke was "going" waltzed out of the majors, an outcast and a discard.

"Howard," said Mack in that kindly, friendly tone he uses in speaking to his men, "I am going to let you go. I am sorry."

The blow struck Ehmke like a bullet. In a voice little more than a whisper he said: "They've all waited on me." "Every one?"

"It seems that none of them wants you now," replied Mack.

The tall pitcher was silent for a moment. Then he made his plea.

"Mr. Mack," he said, "please give me a chance. My arm hasn't been right, but I'm trying all the time to get it into shape. Just give me one more chance. I'll even let you suspend me without pay until such time as my arm improves and I can pitch again. I've been in this league for a long time and I never have been on a championship team. Just let me go into the world series and then you can do anything you wish."

For a moment Connie Mack pondered the problem. "All right, Howard," he said. "We'll just let this rest between ourselves. Nobody shall know anything about it. I'll not suspect you, for I don't do business that way."

But I'll give you another chance. And when you tell me your arm is right I'll take you up. We'll let it stand that way."

After the meeting in the tower Ehmke pitched a few games successfully and continued to work with the ailing arm, always hopeful it would come back.

He was not taken on the last western trip of the Athletics, but every day he was out at the park warming up and keeping in shape. Even then he was pointing for the world series.

Mack's selection for the opening game with the Cubs was not surprising here to those who knew Ehmke's status and Mack's opinion of him as a pitcher. More than a week ago he had said in discussing his pitching staff:

"Ehmke is a fine pitcher. I do not know who I will start in the world series, but whenever Howard comes to me and tells me that he is ready to pitch, why he can pitch that game. I do not know of any better pitcher than Ehmke, when he says he is right."

Chicago—Earl Mastro, Chicago, and Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., drew (10). Salvatore Ruggirello, Italy, outpointed Les Kennedy, San Francisco, (10). My Sullivan, St. Paul, outpointed Jackie Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., (10).

K. H. S. REGULARS WILL BE OUT OF GAME SATURDAY

Kington High School squad will have a number of its regulars out of the game Saturday, when it clashes with Albany Academy at the Kingston Fair Grounds. Four men are not eligible and Herb Clarke injured his knee in last Saturday's game and will be unable to play this week.

Two of the four men not eligible are first string backfield men and the other two are substitutes on the line. Since Clarke is injured one of these men not eligible was the best sub for left tackle. Just now things are in a very serious state but later developments may be in Coach Kins' favor.

This game Saturday means plenty to the local team for another victory would get them firmly on the winning road for the coming DCSO League game. Captain Mehr is in hopes of taking the league pennant this season and have football in the run with the rest of the sports as basketball and baseball in which championships have been taken in the past few years.

The probable line-up that Coach Kins will use, will be announced in a few days.

Sullivan and Carpine Win.

In the last outdoor show of the season at Woodliff Park Tuesday night, Jimmy Sullivan of Miami, Fla., got the decision over Joe Tinsley, Peckskill, N. Y., in the main event. Joe Carpine of this city beat Young Cook in spectacular fashion in semi-final.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould, (Associated Press, Sports Editor.)

"If I should happen to go broke trying to be a promoter, I might have to fight again, but I feel a lot better now on the outside looking in, remarked Jack Dempsey over the radio from the ring of the Fields-Dundee fight at Chicago. Then he paid tribute to Jack Sharkey:

"Sharkey is a great fighter and it will take a mighty good man to beat him. Don't let anybody tell you he can't hit. I know he can."

It is an outside prospect but it Dempsey should be convinced he could get in good fighting trim again, there is little doubt he would like to go in against Sharkey again for one final fling at the title he lost to Tunney.

Meanwhile it does not seem likely the Manassa Mauler has much, if any future as a radio announcer. He took the "mike" for a round of the Fields-Dundee scrap from Graham McNamee but got so excited that he quit broadcasting abruptly to advise Fields to "Finish him, kid, go after him!" Nevertheless his debut as a promoter in Chicago was all very "wonderful" to Dempsey who spotted a lot of "wonderful people" around the ring, and "George Getz with 26 wonderful fellows" in the second row.

Remembering its final-game setback at the hands of Tennessee last December, Florida faces another still schedule with high hopes but a warning against over-confidence, writes Frank S. Wright from his observatory at Gainesville.

"Dale Cansickie, our All-American end, is very much in the picture although his early work has been handicapped by four infected wisdom teeth and a set of aggravating tonsils," advises Wright. "If he rounds into condition I believe he will be even better this year but meanwhile two of our big shots will be Jimmy Steele and guard and Royce Goodbread, a big halfback."

Goodbread weighs 192 pounds of solid bone and muscle and clips off the 100 yard dash in 16 seconds. He has unusual power, speed and drive. In '25 with the St. Petersburg High School team he totaled 189 points for high score honors. This is his final season with the Gators and he certainly looks like he is going to set the south on fire. He carried the ball eight times against Southern whom we defeated 54-0 and aggregated 131 yards, counting two touchdowns.

Jimmy Steele worked hard all summer and at 195 pounds, with last year's experience to go on, may be the best guard in the south."

Speaking of schedules, the Navy has five strenuous games in a row, starting with Notre Dame Oct. 12 and then Duke, Princeton, Pennsylvania and Georgetown in succession. Penn and Princeton each has absorbed two defeats in a row at the hands of the ad both will be out for some revenge.

Generals vs. Stone Ridge.

The Generals baseball team of Lake Katrine will travel to Stone Ridge Sunday to play the Stone Ridge team. The Generals on different meetings with the Stone Riders have always come out on the long end of the score and they hope to repeat again this week. The Stone Ridge team however has different plans and arranged this game for the sole purpose of getting revenge for the past defeats before the present season is ended. Dewey Van Buren will pitch for the Generals and Atkins will do the receiving. The Stone Ridge battery has yet to be announced.

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—Three rivalries, dating back to 1904 or earlier, will be renewed this Saturday for the edification of eastern college football fans.

While the Syracuse-Nebraska and Navy-Notre Dame will take a major share of general public interest there will be plenty left for Pittsburgh's tangle with West Virginia; Princeton's duel with Brown and New York University's battle with Fordham.

Of these the Pitt-West Virginia rivalry is the oldest. Back in 1895 when Pittsburgh was the western university of Pennsylvania, the Panther and Mountaineer met for the first time. There have been 24 meetings since then with Pittsburgh winning a total of 15; West Virginia 8 with one tie. Indications are that the Pittsburgh margin will be increased by one, for Joeek Sutcliffe has developed a powerful Panther team this year.

Brown and Princeton, since 1904, have met five times and the Rhode Island team has yet to record a victory. Brown has been unimpressive in its first two games but Princeton was hardly better in recording its one touchdown victory over Amherst.

New York University will be trying to even its score with Fordham. These intra-city rivals have played nine times since 1904 with victory perching on the Maroon banners of Fordham five times. A N. Y. U. victory is anticipated but the Violets margin is expected at best to be a touchdown or so.

Syracuse and Nebraska have split even in six games since 1917, the corn huskers winning the last two by scores of 20-0 and 7-6. Prospects are rather bright for a Syracuse victory this year, for Nebraska did not appear to particular advantage in its scoreless tie with southern Methodist last Saturday.

If a Syracuse victory materializes, it probably will remain for Notre Dame to keep up the middle western end of Saturday's intercollegiate play. Knute Rockne's Ramblers, with the speedy Jack Elder a constant scoring threat, will be favored over the Navy, which had its troubles downing William and Mary last week.

There are a number of other intercollegiate games of less import on the program with Yale traveling south to play Georgia, Swarthmore meeting Virginia, Michigan State battling Colgate, Virginia Poly meeting Pennsylvania, Davidson taking the field against Army and St. Louis playing Georgetown.

EMPIRES NOT TO BLAME FOR DELAY

Chicago, Oct. 9 (AP)—For once the umpires are not to blame, and insist upon being absolved. The fifteen-minute delay in starting the first game of the world series was generally ascribed to the failure of the arbiters to appear upon the field at the appointed hour.

It develops, however, that hundreds of ticket-holders were caught in an impassable jam before grandstand turnstiles at the last moment and that William Wrigley, Jr., requested Commissioner Landis to delay the start of the game a quarter of an hour to give the clients a "break." The simplest way of preventing play was to delay the appearance of the umpires, who insist they were at the park as early as 12:30 o'clock.

ARMORY FIVE HAS ORGANIZED FOR SEASON.

The Armory Five, recently organized, will be ready to take on the best basketball teams in this vicinity during the coming season, according to William Longendyke of 5 Hurley avenue, who is to manage the team.

He has some of the best courtsters in the First Battalion, 155th Field Artillery, in his lineup and expects to have some West Point soldiers playing with the team. Longendyke will be glad to hear from team managers concerning games.

Yellow Jackets Practice.

The Yellow Jackets will practice tonight at 7 o'clock in the rear of the armory in preparation for their game with the West Point Artillery eleven at the Kingston Fair Grounds Sunday.

Made First Upright Piano.

The first upright piano was patented in 1800 by John Isaac Hawkins, an Englishman, who at that time was residing in the United States.
